OPEN DAY

We asked Professor Andrea Nolan, our Principal and Vice Chancellor, to share what she loves most about Edinburgh Napier University.

YOUR BEST INVESTMENT.

What do you love about Edinburgh Napier University?

I love the programmes we teach. We're focused on linking academic challenges with the realities and challenges of the workplace. It's also a warm and welcoming place. A community of people, all wanting to do our best for each other.

I'm totally proud of the research we do - applied and relevant to our communities today.

What's your advice for new students?

Seek out and take opportunities that are offered to you. Work hard (you would expect me to say this but I believe it!), make friends and enjoy all the University and city has to offer.

And if you have any problems, please ask for guidance. We, the staff, are here for you.

Where is your favourite place in Edinburgh?

On a summer's evening, I love walking along the canal as it weaves its way through the streets. That's my chill time!

Our students working by the Union Canal.

Whether you're in halls, staying at home, or in a flat-share, your new life at university deserves a new look. Here are our top tips for making yourself at home on a budget.

1. Induce room envy by choosing a theme. It could be a colour, design, or style. Choose something and go all out.
2. Use textiles! Cushions, bedding, rugs and throws can make a big impact.
3. In halls or renting? You won't be allowed to use the walls, so you'll need to get creative! Take advantage of any flat surface. Make a feature of your pin board. Or use a vintage school trunk for storage and extra seating.
4. Late night study sessions will be much easier with a desk light and a bedside lamp, rather than huddled under a 60 watt ceiling bulb.
5. There's no better way to prove your independence than by keeping a plant alive. Spider plants, peace lilies and succulents are hard to kill and will help keep your room fresh.

Bright Red Triangle

Bright Red Triangle is our business incubator. It matches our brilliant students with the support and space they need to get their business ideas off the ground.

The latest business to sprout from Bright Red Triangle is lil'POP, the brainchild of Sydney Chasin. Sydney's bright idea came about as the result of her honours dissertation for her degree in Financial Services with Entrepreneurship. Whilst interviewing young entrepreneurs in Scotland, she was inspired:

"Each and every one of them had a unique and invigorating story. They inspired me to embark on this entrepreneurial journey. I came up with this idea off the back of trying the US version of popped sorghum in Washington D.C. and realising the UK popcorn market is booming!"

Since graduating, she has operated her business from Edinburgh Napier's Bright

Red Triangle business incubator, winning support and financial funding from a host of sources, including The Royal Society of Edinburgh, Scottish Enterprise, the Scottish Institute for Enterprise, and, most recently, a £10,000 award from the Scottish EDGE competition.

Sydney is grateful to have business support on a daily basis.

"Bright Red Triangle has been amazing. Every organisation I've worked with has contributed to me getting to this point, but the team at Bright Red Triangle have been there from the very start.

"I've worked from the incubator since 2016, and now I'm using it to grow my team. I've made it my home. There's a fantastic community of like-minded individuals that has been fostered through Bright Red Triangle. The opportunities that come your way through being involved with something like that are endless. I've made so many friends through it too. It's been a great resource to have as I've worked to bring lil'POP to market."

Step 3: Turn the folded square over and fold all four corners in again.

Step 4: With the points you've just folded in facing the centre, put your fingers under the four flaps at the back and push the flaps outwards.
